France Voluntarily Offers To Reduce Armaments

DECISION IS MADE DURING CONFERENCE

Action Means Renewed Life for World Arms Parley and New Naval Accord

OBSTACLE REMOVED

French Disarmament Plan
Will Be Submitted to War Council Tomorrow

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(UP)—France has decided to offer definite and-for her-sizeable reductions in land and sea strength in the interests of general disarmament, it was disclosed today.

The decision, although it has not been made public, has been generally used by the press and was hailed as not only meaning renewed life for the world arms conference at Geneva, but as making possible a new naval accord among France, Britain, the United States, Japan and Italy. Such an accord would remove the greatest obstacle to real naval limitation.

The disarmament plan was finally finished last night after a four-hour conference between Premier Edouard Herriot and some of his chief advisers—Joseph Paul-Boncour, Paul Painleve, Georges Leygues and Maurice Sarraut. The conferees agreed on maximum concessions at Geneva beyond which France will be adamant. The plan will be submitted to the superior war council tomorrow.

Nationalists were alarmed at the smoothness with which Herriot and his four advisers drew up their plan. It was pointed out that the "firebrands," Marshal Pétain and Gen. Max Weygand, were excluded from the conference. Despite the secrecy, it was learned the government decided to reduce the military establishment by reducing the term of the conscript service from 12 to 9 months, if other nations "reduce similarly and offer security guarantees. Such a program should entail actual reduction of the size of the French army from 20 to 12 divisions, balanced by organization of a militia, which France has not had since Lafayette's militia in revolutionary days.

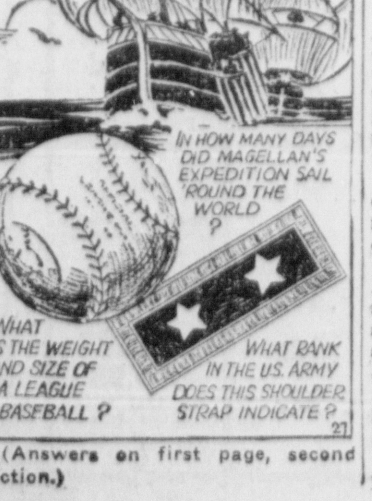

It was believed here that the conferences which Norman H. Davis has been holding in London, and which will be completed by a meeting with Herriot this week-end, foreshadow a new United States position regarding the freedom of the seas. It was reported to be sympathetic to a similar project contained in the French plan.

RUTH NICHOLS ON CAMPAIGN FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Ruth Nichols, aviatrix, plans to take off from Floyd Bennett field tomorrow morning on a non-stop "campaign flight" to Los Angeles. Her plane has been painted white and on the sides are the words "stand by our president" with pictures of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis alongside.

Miss Nichols expects to drop circulars enroute urging votes for the Republican ticket. She said she expected to make several campaign speeches in California.

Attack on Supreme Court in Baltimore Speech Brings Criticism

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt's departure from his set speech at Baltimore, in which he referred to the United States supreme court as "controlled" by the Republican party, has brought a storm of criticism from prominent Republicans.

In a biting statement, James M. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, called Roosevelt "a demagogue." Silas H. Strawn, former president of the American Bar association, said he was "amazed that any reputable member of the bar... should make that statement which strikes at the very foundation of our government."

Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York, and former Governor Charles S. Whitman were among others who protested against the statement. Of those who commented in releases from Republican headquarters, Beck was the most vigorous.

SEEK HUSBAND IN SLAYING OF WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—County authorities extended their search today for Gus Cerney, vanished husband of 21-year-old Irene Cerney, whose battered body was found on a desert road near Victorville Friday night.

A description of the missing husband was broadcast throughout the state after the victim had been identified and an inspection of her home revealed it a shambles of bloodstained linens and disarrayed furniture. Tire tracks showed where a car had been backed up to a rear door, officers said. They believed the girl had been slain there and her body removed to the desert.

Cerney's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Caspell, said she last saw the couple on Oct. 17 when they left, ostensibly for Palm Springs.

NOTED WRITER IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Nina Wilcox Putnam, well known writer, charged her husband, Arthur James Ogle, called her unseemly names and displayed an uncontrollable temper, in a suit for divorce on file today.

The action, Mrs. Putnam pointed out, is an amicable one. Ogle is president of a Los Angeles mayonnaise manufacturing firm.

The couple married in Yuma, Ariz., on Sept. 12, 1931, and separated on Oct. 4, 1932. During their short married life, Mrs. Putnam said, Ogle was guilty of acts of cruelty which caused her great mental suffering, quarreling with her over trivial matters and belittling her in the presence of friends.

Mrs. Putnam has a son by a previous marriage.

BABY ABDUCTED BY MOTHER IS LOCATED IN MOUNTAINS

Claims She Intended To Kill Child

Woman Placed Under Arrest With Male Companion Who Assisted Her

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Nancy Irene Buchanan, pretty three-year-old foster child of the wealthy Mrs. Violet Buchanan, divorced, was returned here today from Newhall where, authorities claimed, she was taken after she was abducted by her true mother, Mrs. Ruth Borman, 21.

The real mother assertedly told officers that she intended to kill the child and then commit suicide.

The girl, snatched late yesterday from the nursery of the Buchanan home, was unharmed.

Mrs. Borman, police said, readily admitted taking her child from Mrs. Buchanan, its legal guardian.

Mrs. Borman was taken into custody along with M. E. Warner, 24, of San Fernando, who assertedly assisted in the abduction.

Police were led to Mrs. Borman by Warner, who was arrested and questioned early today when it was learned he was friendly with Mrs. Borman.

Under questioning he was said to have admitted he drove Mrs. Borman to the Buchanan home and waited while she went to the nursery and picked up the child.

He then drove the mother and child to a mountain shack near Newhall where he left them, police said.

Warner allegedly admitted that he aided Mrs. Borman because he felt sorry for her when she grieved over being separated from her daughter.

The three year old girl was taken into the Buchanan home a few hours after its birth.

Last spring Mrs. Buchanan went to court to have herself made legal guardian of Nancy Irene.

Mrs. Borman contested this action unsuccessfully.

She claimed she never had agreed to turn the child over to Mrs. Buchanan but the latter alleged by oral agreement and the court held for Mrs. Buchanan.

Mrs. Borman declined to name the father of her child.

"There's no use getting him into this," she said nervously.

THREAT TO BUILD
BIG NAVY IS MADE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—America will build up its fighting fleet to full treaty strength if world disarmament efforts fail, President Hoover has warned the nations gathered for the Geneva arms conference.

Such efforts, the president said, are making progress. He added, however, that:

"If these efforts finally fail, we shall be compelled, by reason of the disturbed conditions prevailing throughout the world and the necessity of protecting American commerce, to build our navy to the full strength provided in the London agreement, equal to that of the most powerful in the world."

GANTMAN SKULL FRACTURED IN FOUR PLACES

Inquest Reveals New Angle and Open Verdict Returned by Jury

THAT THE MURDER OF Manius Gantman, East Fourth street merchant, killed last Monday at noon at his store, was one premeditated and was not done in a holdup, was indicated shortly before noon today when it was revealed at the coroner's inquest that Gantman was struck four separate and distinct blows by his assailant, armed with an iron bar.

Police were of the opinion that only two blows were struck. Today they learned that the man was struck after he was down. The murderer wanted to be sure his victim was dead.

Except for this new lead, police say they have nothing new on the crime. The investigation goes on, clues are being run down every hour or so, but nothing which might lead to the arrest of the murderer or murderers has been found, Chief of Police F. W. Howard said this morning.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder, "at the hands of a person, or persons unknown." That was about the only verdict that could have been rendered.

Four Fractures

Dr. Elizabeth Tuck, county autopsy surgeon, told of her findings of the four blows which were struck. She believes that the first blow may have been while Gantman's back was turned at the base of the skull. The skull was broken at the base, and there was another break higher up on the back of the skull. Then there were two breaks just right of the left temple, almost over the left eye. Both blows were probably struck after Gantman fell and turned over on his back. The blows in the front were the ones which produced death. The blows at the back of the head would have rendered the man unconscious, but would not have caused death.

Police declare that robbery still could have been the motive, but with the new evidence at hand, they are not inclined to so believe. A robber, they pointed out, would not have been so interested in killing the man. He would have been satisfied with merely rendering him unconscious.

WILL TEST COSMIC RAY IN AIRPLANES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—(UP)—Equipped with delicate electroscopes, an airplane was recruited by science today to test the action of the elusive cosmic ray at high altitudes.

The plane, with Capt. G. W. Combs at the controls, was to ascend to an altitude of 16,000 feet in an effort to record on the electroscopes, any possible variations of the ray at that height.

The experimental flight was undertaken in the interest of the theory of Dr. Robert A. Millikan, California scientist, that cosmic rays are light rays and not susceptible to variation by the magnetic pull of the poles. Both day and night flights were ordered as an experiment.

LEGION CLAIMS BIG BUSINESS AGAINST BONUS

Criticism is Developing Against Big Income Taxpayers in United States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—A cross fire of criticism is developing against big income taxpayers as a prelude to this winter's bitter congressional dispute over economy and taxation.

Opponents of the general sales tax accuse possessors of large incomes of sponsoring the sales levy in the hope eventually of abolishing or materially reducing taxation on incomes.

The American Legion has just circulated an accusation that large income taxpayers are behind the agitation for reduced veterans' compensation. The Legion clip sheet prepared at national headquarters in Indianapolis asserts it has traced propaganda of the National Economy league to the income tax group.

Reviewing statements issued by the league and the United States Chamber of Commerce, the clip sheet asserts they are allied to "incite class struggle."

Observers expect the bitterness of the tax and economy dispute this winter greatly to exceed that of last session when an effort was made to balance the budget by enacting new taxes estimated to yield an additional $1,118,598,000 of revenue.

Treasury receipts so far this fiscal year indicate that the bill which was said last June to have balanced the budget will fall far short of that accomplishment. The deficit now is over $600,000,000.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith in his Newark speech predicted it would reach $1,000,000,000. Smith did not define his attitude toward the sales tax but of congressmen who seek to increase revenue by raising the income tax, he said they were unable to understand that "nothing plus nothing still is nothing." He said the income was not there to tax.

Chairman Reed of the senate military affairs committee and a member of the finance committee recently predicted no material reduction in the $1,000,000,000 veterans' appropriation would be made this winter.

"The drive of veterans' organization for payment of the bonus was intensified when Admiral Robert E. Coontz, retired, new commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, laid before President Hoover that organization's demands for immediate cashing of the bonus and for pensions to veterans' widows and orphans."

The administration's opposition to payment of the bonus was reiterated in an address by Maj. O. W. Clark, assistant chief of the veterans bureau. He said veterans' benefits during the next 10 years would total $9,130,000,000 without the bonus. Regarding proposals for paying the bonus to veterans in distress, he said he doubted that unemployed veterans were any worse off than other jobless groups and pointed out that the veterans can obtain free medical care.

Rioters Smash Windows in Automobiles, Buildings and Also Private Homes

HYDE PARK, LONDON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Two riots were broken up by police when the British "hunger marchers" reached Hyde Park today.

London hoodlums who awaited the marchers in the park were credited with starting the disturbances which attracted a crowd of 100,000 persons. Many were injured, and demonstrators threw stones at police, and smashed the windows of automobiles and shops.

Charging through the great steel gates of Marble Arch, the mounted police rode into a crowd, swinging their batons furiously on unemployed and spectators alike, and sprawling hoodlums and members of society into the mud.

A checkup tonight showed that 50 persons were injured in the fighting. Two were carried away on stretchers. Many others required minor first aid and were treated at a field station set up in the park by the marchers.

The "hunger marchers" who walked to London through a week of cold rains and with short rations, concluded their demonstrations against decreased unemployment relief and the "means test" in housing in the relief office and hoodlums caused the police one of their busiest afternoons in many years.

CHAPLIN AGAIN IS WINNER OVER WIFE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, today counted his second victory in his latest fight to prevent his former wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, from introducing their two small sons into motion pictures.

Superior Court Judge Charles S. Crail late yesterday overruled the motion of Mrs. Chaplin to let her execute a contract by which the two boys, Charles Spencer Chaplin Jr., 7, and Sydney Earl, 6, would appear in five pictures at a salary of $35,000 a picture.

Judge Crail decided that "should Mrs. Chaplin make any success with the children in pictures, she would be banking in the relief office glory of her former husband. It should be his privilege to direct who shares in the glory of his name."

Thank somebody for the compliment. Old age and depression hit my polo same year. Type of polo I always played, I could get my horses off a merry-go-round. Besides if I wanted good horses I would never leave America for 'em, and if they will let me race in every State we will have better ones everywhere. Just stopped for gas at our Virgin Islands. Looks like Roosevelt's got it tonight. Stopping in San Juan, Porto Rico just looking down now on the wreckage of that hurricane one month ago tonight. They were held prisoners at Fort Shafter pending further investigation into their asserted plot to sell army secrets to an American secret service agent who posed as the representative of a foreign power.

The raid was witnessed by a large crowd of civilians and caused a furor of excitement throughout the city.

FIRST WHALE MEAT BROUGHT TO PLANT AT LOS ALAMITOS; 3 BOATS USED IN OPERATIONS

Eighty tons of whale meat was brought to the new plant of the Dr. W. J. Ross company, dog and cat food manufacturing firm, at Los Alamitos today, representing the first cargo of meat received from the three boats engaging in whaling operations off the coast.

In addition, approximately 650 tons of whale oil was brought in, the oil being turned over to a soap manufacturing company in Long Beach harbor, where the boat docked.

The Ross firm plans to use part of the whale meat in its dog and cat food but will also sell the whale meat for human consumption and a campaign to popularize this product will get under way at once. The company heretofore has used horse meat in its canned food.

Refrigerating equipment at the Los Alamitos plant was completed this week. Manufacturing operations will not get under way there for some time, the whale meat being transported from Los Alamitos to the present plant at Norwalk.

Three vessels are being used, two "killer" boats and a manufacturing boat. The "killer" vessels are operating off Farallon islands and Drake's bay, located near Santa Catalina island. The manufacturing boat, the "California," under Capt. F. A. Dedrick, is anchored off the Orange county coast. The whales are killed by the "Hawk" and the "Port Saunders" and the mammals brought to the "California," where the oil is removed and the meat broken up and frozen.

Oil and meat will be brought in every three weeks. The Los Alamitos establishment, formerly a sugar plant, has a storage capacity of 200 tons.

POSITION ON MATTERS TOLD BY CANDIDATE

The support of two former candidates for supervisor in this district was given to W. C. Jerome, candidate for supervisor, at a meeting of his campaign workers held last night in the Santa Ana cafe.

In addition to the expressed support of former mayor John Knox and former councilman Stanley Goode, nearly 75 prominent citizens of Santa Ana voiced their support of Jerome for supervisor at the meeting last night, which began with a dinner.

In a brief talk, the former county auditor made clear his stand on various matters of public interest and importance. He declared that he would actively work to do all in his power as a supervisor to effect a change in the law which would give the cities a fair share of the gasoline tax money. He promised his personal effort to aid in the unemployment problem. He came out firmly for the retaining of the state Wright act. Reduction of taxes will be one of his major aims if elected supervisor, he said.

Unemployment
"In the unemployment problem, about all that a supervisor can do at the present time is work in the best manner with agencies of the county already existing," the candidate said. "No direct promises can be made because of the consideration of the interests of the taxpayer who is affected by the unemployed situation."

"I have always pursued a course to employ all the local labor possible. The law says contracts must be awarded to the lowest bidder. The matter must be worked out as problems arise; they cannot be worked ahead."

"A much-mooted subject is the gas tax. As I have done in the past, I will do in the future—all that I can to see that the cities get a fair share of the gas tax money. There is but one thing a supervisor could do now, work with the League of Municipalities and go to the state legislature to see that a proper allocation is made to the cities. This would mean the greatest relief possible to the taxpayers at the present time of anything that could be done. Probably I'll be lonesome among the supervisors on the question but at least I will have my support."

"I promise citizens of Santa Ana as far as the best business interests of the county dictates I will work for tax economy."

Bill Iverson, manager of the Legion drum corps, presided at the meeting. Many of the prominent ranchers, bankers, merchants, professional men and others present at the meeting, pledged their support to Jerome in brief talks. Among these were John Knox, Stanley Goode, Col. S. H. Finley, Councilman J. L. McBride, W. F. Credley, E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist, George Peters, Sam Jernigan, Jules Markel, Dr. J. Maroon, Dr. Robert Currie, Dr. Roy Horton, Sam Hurwitz, J. Ogden Markel, Ed McFadden, A. L. Mellin, Plummer Bruns, Don Loveridge and many others.

Mrs. Borman denied that she was the author of threatening notes written last August to Mrs. Buchanan demanding $12,500, but officers said they picked up a typewriter in the Newhall shack where they found her.

The notes threatened the abduction of Nancy Irene unless the money was paid.

LONDON POLICE BREAK UP TWO RIOTS TODAY

after the various contingents of the hunger marchers had reached the park and marched in order to the various platforms designated for speakers. Hyde Park is famous for its meetings in which the government allows speakers great freedom in discussing practically any subject.

About 1000 youths and several women outside the park and not connected with the hunger marchers, attacked limousines parked near the Regal Cinema, behind Marble Arch. They seized stones from a pile near a building, under construction, outwitting a force of special constables, and smashed windows of the cars.

Then the rioters turned to smashing windows of buildings and private homes. Mounted and foot police charged with batons. The rioters were segregated into small groups and chased through the streets, but reassembled to stone police as prisoners were taken away in motor trucks.

The police gained control of the situation after a brisk fight of half an hour, but agitators continued their work in the crowd. Most of the spectators in the park had been attracted to Marble Arch by the fighting, and by 4:30 p. m. the crowd around the famous arch was estimated at 100,000.

The second riot broke out inside Marble Arch, within Hyde Park proper. Men and youths estimated to number about 5000 attacked a police force of some 200 men. They tore down fence

Van Wyk Speaks To Business Men

Invited to speak to a group of business men and property owners at a meeting held in the D. A. Harnois home, 311 South Broadway last night Charles D. Van Wyk, candidate for supervisor from the first district, told why, if elected, he will fight for an equal distribution of the gasoline tax between the incorporated cities of Orange county.

Van Wyk was invited to address this group of approximately 20 business men on the subjects of the gasoline tax because of their interest in taxes assessed the cities for street purposes.

In his talk Van Wyk presented charts showing that in the past 12 years the city of Santa Ana has paid $800,000 in gasoline taxes which were refunded to the county and, during the same period, received $58,000 for use on city streets.

TO COOPERATE IN DEVELOPING FOOD SOURCES

Organization of an association of unemployed of all communities in the county will be effected at a meeting scheduled to be held in the headquarters of the Unemployed Association of Santa Ana on North Main street tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, it was announced today by William Ruddiman. A former county organization was abandoned several months ago.

Officers will be elected and plans for the county joining in a scheme to make collective contacts with food supply sources with other counties to save gasoline and other expenses will be discussed. It is planned to organize a county central food committee to handle the situation without waste or duplication of efforts.

Dance and Party
Plans are being worked out now between members of the local organization and the 40 at 8 to stage a benefit barbecue at Irvine park in the near future. Final details have not been arranged.

Saturday night, at the unemployed headquarters, the association will stage a Halloween party for members and their families. Entertainment including dancing, fortune telling, stunts and other features will be presented.

Ruddiman today issued a public warning against the fraudulent misrepresentations made lately by persons who have contacted the sources of food supply and stating they were representing the unemployed association. All authorized representatives have cards of identification. Persons contacted for food will confer a favor on the association if they ask to see the cards of credentials, Ruddiman said.

Need Stoves and Fuel
The association is in dire need of wood stoves, oil stoves or any type of stove that can be used for heating homes of members, who may have had their gas turned off because of inability to meet their bills, he said.

The association would also like to make contacts with anyone that has an orchard or trees that are to be cut down so that the wood can be secured.

Ruddiman today expressed appreciation for the use of the old bus which was donated by C. H. Eckles. The bus has been used every day for transporting food supplies and men, he pointed out.

The main difficulty the association is having, in the absence of any funds, is to obtain a supply of gasoline. Donations of gasoline would be particularly appreciated, he said.

DEFENDANT IN AUTO DEATH CASE POSTS $15,000 BAIL; SAID MEMBER OF NOBILITY

Rolf Von Eckartsberg, Glendale used car salesman and member of the German nobility, according to his attorney, yesterday posted bail of $15,000 with Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison, at the conclusion of his arraignment on a charge of manslaughter.

The charge was filed against him as the result of an automobile accident on South Main street, Orange, last Friday night in which three Orange high school students were instantly killed, and following a report from a coroner's jury that Eckartsberg's machine was being driven in a negligent manner at the time of the crash.

The preliminary examination for Von Eckartsberg was set in the local justice court for November 19, at 9 a. m.

The man's attorney, Stanley J. Visel, of Los Angeles, appeared with him at the proceedings yesterday afternoon and stated that his client was a member of the nobility. He said that he had been in this country only four years and that he returned two years ago to the Fatherland at which time he married a German girl, bringing her back to this country. They now have a young child.

Arthur Maas, of 1905 North Main street, Santa Ana, also arrested in connection with the case and who having admitted that he drove Von Eckartsberg away from the scene of the accident, has already been arraigned in the Orange justice court on a charge of obstructing an officer in his duty. He will be given a hearing in a few days. His bail was set at $2000 which he did not make, and is being held in the county jail.

H. Lehmann, of Colorado Springs, Colorado; and Miss Marie Buck, of San Francisco, and a niece, Henrietta Bohling, of this city.

COLLINS SPEAKS IN NEIGHBOR COUNTIES

Continuing his forays into Riverside and San Bernardino counties, District Attorney Sam L. Collins left today to keep speaking engagements in Riverside and Redlands concerning his candidacy for congress on the Republican ticket.

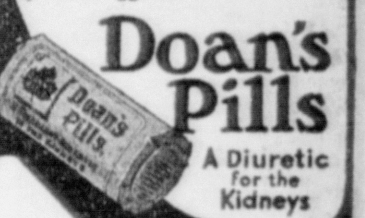

Last night Collins spoke in San Bernardino at a Republican rally arranged by the San Bernardino county Republican central committee at which former United States Senator Pyles, of Washington, made the main address. Collins also was a guest at an American Legion meeting in Riverside.

Returning to his office today, Collins was informed that J. O. Strodtfoth, manager of the Holly Sugar company, at Dyer, south of Santa Ana, had given him a strong endorsement along with all other Republican candidates because of what Strodtfoth said was the importance of retaining the Republican protective tariff so that American sugar beet farmers would not have to compete at a disadvantage with the cheaply-paid laborers of the tropical countries.

CITY TEACHERS PLEDGE $6000 RELIEF FUND

Teachers in the Santa Ana city schools are meeting the challenge of need with dollars according to statistics in the process of collection by Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson. They have subscribed more than $600 to relieve want in the city during the winter months.

Of the total amount pledged, approximately $420 has been pledged to the Community Chest for distribution among the relief and character building organizations of the city. The remainder is pledged to funds to be used in the schools in relieving emergencies among the students.

Henderson's report is incomplete at present as pledges to the various school relief funds have not been completed in the schools and have not been reported to him, he announced.

Teachers of the high school and junior college, in addition to subscribing $1000 to the Community Chest, this year have created a fund of $1000 to be used in the schools for the relief of students who, except for such assistance would be in need during the school year.

At the Frances Willard Junior High school, contributions to the Community Chest have totaled $355 and the teachers are contributing $15.40 each month for special school relief. At the Logan school where the teachers are providing a light lunch for 80 needy students each day, the teachers have raised $152 to assist in this work. This contribution is additional to their subscriptions to the Community Chest which total $64.60.

Other schools in the system have created similar relief funds. Henderson reported Tuesday night at the meeting of the Santa Ana board of education but have not reported the amounts.

At the beginning of the Community Chest campaign $7047.50 was fixed as the quota for the schools of the city. To date $4200 of this amount has been subscribed with the drive not yet completed. School contributions to date are: administration office, $255; high school and junior college, $1093.89; Julia Lathrop Junior High school, $476.35; Frances Willard Junior High school, $355; juvenile home, $25; Delhi, $73; Edison, $63.50; Franklin, $54; Fremont, $122.50; Hoover and Lincoln, $216.82; Jefferson and Wilson, $122; Logan, $64.60; Lowell, $70; McKinley, $201; Muir, $105; Roosevelt, $124.66; Spurgeon, $176.50.

CHESTWORKERS SEEKING 1500 MORE PLEDGES

In a resolute effort to secure at least an additional 1500 pledges, the army of volunteer workers for the Community Chest welfare and relief fund will continue their concentrated program of solicitations for another week before throwing the territories open to general solicitation, officials for the campaign have announced.

Workers in the residential department met this morning at the Y. M. C. A. and heard the lagging reports as presented by Miss Mabel McAdams, division chairman. They agreed to continue their work for another week, making reports on Friday, Tuesday and last on next Thursday.

This afternoon a meeting of the large business department will be held at chest headquarters under the guidance of R. B. Newcomb, acting chairman in the absence of Charles Fritchard. This group of volunteers will be asked to follow a program similar to that accepted by the residential department.

The establishments department under the chairmanship of John Cranston, will meet Friday morning at the headquarters to check over the work of employees and to see what can be done to bring the reports up to the full quota assigned the division. It is pointed out that this section of the $53,000 appeal, has consistently set the pace for the entire campaign.

The fore part of the coming week a meeting of the advance gifts committee is to be held in order to make a final check-up and effort to bring in a good many large pledges which have not as yet been made. W. J. Fway, campaign chairman, said.

DIAL KNOCKED FROM SAFE OF MILL OFFICE

Burglars entered two Santa Ana places last night, one a residence, the other a business house. Nothing of great value was stolen at either place.

The dial from the safe of the Globe Milling company at Fourth street and the Santa Fe tracks was knocked off by burglars who entered that place some time during the night, after breaking down a door.

The safe was not broken into, however. The office was ransacked but nothing of value was reported stolen.

A small amount of food was reported stolen from the home of Mrs. K. A. Rittner, of 320 West Washington avenue, some time early last night while members of the family were away from home. A pass key was used on the front door to gain entrance.

Clothes valued at $10 were stolen from the clothes line at the home of Mrs. Morgan Fitzpatrick, of 643 1-2 North Van Ness street yesterday afternoon, she reported to the police. A man was seen walking away with the clothes by a neighbor.

CHILD FRIGHTENED BY MAN IN AUTO

A man, driving a small coupe, yesterday afternoon attempted to entice the daughter of P. V. Banks, of 608 West Bishop street into his machine, according to a report filed with the city police.

The child, who attends the Lowell school at Flower and Bishop streets was near the school at the time. She was badly frightened.

Chicken Thieves Secure 236 Fowls In Raid Near H. B.

Two hundred and thirty-six chickens were stolen from the pens of W. D. Harrell at Huntington Beach boulevard and Slater road near Huntington Beach about 8 o'clock last night.

A large truck with high sides was seen near the place early last evening but the license number was not obtained. Seventy of the fowls were year olds, 42 were three and a half months old, 119 were two and a half months and five were sickle hens, the others being White Leghorns.

A county wide meeting of the Republican Service League will be held in conjunction with the second "bean feed" at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Santa Ana cafe. It was announced today by Lloyd Banks, speaker of the Santa Ana assembly of the organization, who called the meeting.

The meeting is open to all veterans of all wars. The object of the meetings being held here by the service league is to promote the interests of the Republican party. There will be a special speaker present to deliver an address which will contain an important message. It was announced. All veterans were urged to be present.

Plans for a big rally to be held November 7 when District Attorney Byron Pitts of Los Angeles will be one of the featured speakers, will be discussed.

FINAL RITES FOR ACCIDENT VICTIMS HELD

In the flower-filled chapel of Winbigler's funeral establishment yesterday, services were held for Dorothy Hill, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Hill, 173 North Lemon street, Orange, with the Rev. F. A. Flora, pastor of the Church of the Brethren in charge, and the day previous services were held for Mark Leutzinger, son of Mrs. Besse Leutzinger, 137 West Palm street, Orange, both victims of an automobile accident which wiped out three young lives Friday evening on North Main street.

Miss Hill was a sophomore at the Orange union high school which she had attended for the past two years. Previous to that time she was a student at the Santa Ana Julia Lathrop junior high school. Pall-bearers were schoolmates from the Orange high school and were Norman Raines, Charles Goodwin, Robert Goodwin, Lloyd McCollum, Ernest Wagers and Watson Ruddy. Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery. Surviving Miss Hill are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James O. Hill, two brothers, Albert and Jimmy, and one sister, Mary.

Services for Mark Leutzinger, 13, were conducted by the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, pastor of the First Christian church of Orange and music was given by a quartet from the church composed of Floyd Owings, Arnold Todd, Burton Alloway and Randall Bivens, with Otis Ingle as the accompanist.

The young man was graduated from the Orange Union high school two years ago and he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Besse Leutzinger, one sister, Mrs. Maxine Leutzinger Brand, and one brother, Ned Leutzinger.

Pall bearers were former schoolmates and were Clarence Clement, Norman Raines, Watson Ruddy, Harry Hill, George Bonecutter and George Brignell. Interment was in Fairhaven cemetery. Funeral services for the other crash victim, Ronald Worden, of Orange, were held from the C. W. Coffey chapel, Orange, Tuesday.

A World's Record

MORE than three thousand births without a single loss of either mother or child! That is the official Platt County record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, in fifty years' family practice in Illinois.

No wonder mothers have such entire confidence in giving little ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin!

If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthier. It keeps children's delicate systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you are troubled with sick headaches and no appetite. Take some for several days when run-down, and see how it picks you up.

It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready in big bottles, just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

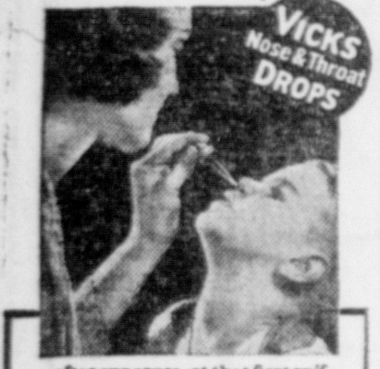

FEWER SCHOOL DAYS LOST DUE TO COLDS

Remarkable Results of New Colds-Control Plan of Special Interest to Mothers and Teachers

A saving of practically two-thirds in school time!

Each Vicks package contains full details of this unique Vicks Colds-Control Plan.

POINTS NEED OF AID FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

By MRS. NICHOLAS BRADY
Chairman National Board of Girl Scouts

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — No American would knowingly let a child go hungry, but hunger is not the only privation from which a child can suffer. There is such a thing as spiritual starvation, and thousands of young people are enduring that now in homes from which the old sense of security is gone and with it the happiness and pride of purposeful living.

The relief agencies realize that their job is only begun when they have filled the pockets or cupboards of the needy. That is why they have made common cause with the organizations whose first concern is with morale. Outside the home, church and school are the two great forces for the maintenance of morale, but if a child's life is to be properly rounded it must have play.

The Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. are four of many organizations whose concern is with the happiness of young people. Their activities dovetail into, but do not duplicate, those of the other agencies whose fundamental purpose is the same and whose work is an integral part of national life. That all these agencies are necessary is due to the changing structure of society, in which the influence of church and home and the formal training of the school no longer determine as they once did, the entire development of the child. To deprive children now of their accustomed sources of constructive play or even to limit the amount available seems to me not only a national danger but a confession that the country has lost its confidence or its kindness.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick, impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-ROID tablets have such a wonderful record of success in this city that McCoy Drug Co., and all good druggists invite you to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.—Adv.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG -- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON By Paul Mallon

SOVIETS
Germany is slyly flirting with the Reds.

Confidential information about it has reached the best financial authorities. They have their eyes peeled to see how the flirtation comes out.

The soft fabric of Russia needs the steel of Germany. Von Papen proposes to work it out. He is taking advantage of Great Britain's repudiation of her Soviet trade agreements. The Soviets are thoroughly aroused against Britain. They will do business with Germany if possible.

That will give France something else to worry about.

The stories that Britain will offer new agreements to Russia are merely polite gestures. That is like dusting a man off after you have kicked him out. The best indications are that there will be no future agreements between Britain and Russia unless Russia is unable to find better arrangements elsewhere in the world.

The shock of British action was far greater under the surface of Europe than you will believe. Our economists were convinced all along that the British would never take such a step. The British delegates at the Ottawa conference officially announced it.

The inside story is that the British conservatives forced it and threatened to toss out the coalition government unless it was done.

SMOKE
These things are just heaping a few more fagots on the brush pile that is smouldering under Europe. Add to them the facts that the British took the pegs out from under sterling; that disarmament is getting nowhere; that Germany is spouting a new nationalism; that Japan is tearing the League apart.

It shows you what a good place Europe is to stay out of now.

COLLECTIONS
Papen's plea for a general lowering of tariffs to enable Germany to pay her creditors with goods was not made in earnest. Germans know that there is no chance of any country complying with this naive request. The real purpose behind the move is to establish an alibi for a future policy of "inability" to pay German private debts.

Next spring at the latest Germans will come out in the open, but up to then there may be a few more official reiterations of Germany's intention to pay private creditors.

SLUMS
The R. F. C. is getting a little skittish of these plans for slum rehabilitation.

They probably will authorize a small one soon in New York as a trial to see how it works. They are doubtful whether the project would actually be self-liquidating. Occupants of the new houses probably will be compelled to pay a few dollars more than they did in tenements. They might prefer to keep their tenements.

At least that is what is holding up the business. Applications are expected shortly from Ohio, Illinois and Texas. Some experimenting also may be tried in those states on a small scale before the full loans are authorized.

NIPPON
The Japs have found a new way of annoying State Secretary Stimson. They are circulating rumors that he will resign because he has been too harsh with them.

Stimson is pretty well on to their game. He does not get excited now as he did the first few times they insulted him. He tries to laugh it off easily.

The truth of the matter is that Stimson would like to go further against the Japs than the President will permit. The difference of opinion has not yet reached nearly to the point where Stimson's resignation would be in order.

TRADE
Those who trace business trends from inside pray now for a break of luck.

They say our present situation strongly demands some outstanding favorable news. A new deal agreement would help. If someone would drop a match into the Russian or Canadian grain supplies we could give thanks.

Nobody thinks any of these things are possible within the next two months. Unless they come it looks as if we would have to struggle along for a while yet on no better than our present level. The election may have an effect.

THOMAS
The Socialists are figured to get twice as many votes this time as ever before. That will be nearly two millions.

They have put up their strongest campaign. Their candidate, the White Tie Socialist, Norman Thomas, has made the movement highly respectable. He and Debs used to talk from soap boxes wherever they could get an audience. Now Thomas speaks in the best music halls, on the radio and conducts a coast-to-coast tour.

The party has apparently been better financed—if you can use that word when talking about Socialists.

BONUS
Roosevelt was apparently dissatisfied with the reaction he received to the two trial balloons he sent up on the bonus issue. They suggested the bonus could be raised for veterans in need of relief.

While that sounds logical the vets do not want it. They have protested against taking what they call "a pauper's oath" before getting their money.

That was why Roosevelt left it out when he took his stand against payment of the cash bonus to all.

CRIME
Congressman Lankford of Georgia returned to the capital walling woe recently after his defeat in the primary. His weeping comrades asked what happened to him.

"My successful opponent made only one charge against me—that I was a member of the last Congress," said Lankford. "That was enough."

NOTES
The man who killed the sales tax, Congressman LaGuardia, is being sorely pressed in his reelection contest in New York. Tammany is running a strong man against him and campaigning enthusiastically.

The Socialists are edging him from the other side. His friends say he may be beaten. He has sent out a call for help. Brown, who succeeded Glassford as Washington Chief of Police is neither here nor there in politics. He received the promotion as a matter of seniority. Glassford's resignation came the day before a national magazine came out with his analysis of the bonus army which was uncompromising to the Administration.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

All commercial programs will be off the air on the three big networks the night before the election. There has been a tidy struggle between the parties for this coveted time. It has worked out so that the Republicans have all three hookups to themselves between 8 and 11 while the Democrats have salvaged the hour from 11 to 12. The Republican program will cost plenty of money. Henry Ford was an important contributor to the fund that made it possible.

FUNDS
The Democratic Finance Committee was cheered up quite a bit by last week's developments. Several good sized and rather unexpected contributions were received. The leaders figure they now have plenty to tide them over till November 8.

BETS
Most of the big election bets you hear rumors about are stage money. A group of Wall Streeters friendly to Hoover let it be known that they had half a million dollars to offer at proper odds. A bunch of Democrats came back with offers of a quarter million. It was all good clean fun.

BANKS
The expansion of member bank loans "in other than security collateral" is chiefly due to dealings in federal funds—not to commercial business. The banks may be a little easier in their credit requirements than they were but the change is hardly discernible to the naked eye. All signs indicate that governments will be excessively popular as investments for months to come but that added demand for other types of loans and investments will be very slight.

The Federal Reserve Banks are still hanging on to their full wagon load of government securities. There is little chance of a change in policy until the member banks show some interest in other borrowers than the Treasury itself.

DEHOARDING
A significant sign of dehoarding is the cancellation of safety deposit boxes reported by several large banks. They also report that neat little bags of gold have been handed over to the tellers quite regularly for the last three months.

STERLING
Highest bank authorities here are saying guardedly that the British are no longer making a serious effort to keep the pound at any particular level. The 150,000,000 pound stabilization fund is not depleted but there are no signs that it is being used. Informed opinion would not be surprised to see the pound sterling drop to $2.50 before it stops jiggling.

STEEL
The campaign to boost steel activity is now in full swing. The railroads are the particular target. Maintenance loans from the R. F. C. should put a lot of men to work soon.

Steel trade papers have several times mentioned 35 per cent capacity as a goal to be attained in the near future. There is a definite reason for this figure. The big companies would have to average 35 per cent capacity just to break even. They did it last year on 38 per cent but economies since adopted account for the difference.

Thirty-five per cent would mean almost doubling present business. New York financial leaders cannot figure how it can be done.

RAILS
Three months ago the railroads announced the formation of a committee to develop methods of economy in operation. The members of the committee have just been named and it is announced that the committee will meet one day a month. Evidently the roads can make their economy or leave it alone.

INCOME
Private investors in German securities of all types must look forward to a suspension of dividend remittances within the near future. No date has been set for the stoppage but ability to secure foreign exchange is close to the limit.

When dividends are declared they will be payable in Reichsmarks. These will be deposited to the creditors' accounts in Germany. They can be used for the purchase of goods or services in Germany or nearby where the Reichsmark circulates. There transactions will be entirely at the discretion and risk of the concern or individual electing to make them.

Informed opinion anticipates increasing opportunities to use German currency within the U. S. S. R.

HIGH SUMMER by Booth Tarkington

SYNOPSIS FOR PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS

A "High summer" was how Mrs. Wheat described the social activities of a fashionable New England seashore resort to Ambrose Trainband, the "Gracie" of the resort. Mrs. Wheat presided in the Brendle kitchen and exulted in the triumphs of her amiable husband. Mrs. Wheat was generally understood that Miss Kitty was as good as engaged to Norbert Enderton, son of the resort's social leaders. Kitty was 19 and pretty. The only thing to mar her summer romance was that she had suddenly developed a violent case of young love and accused her of avoiding him and "singing" for Norbert. Just after the Brendles closed the season brilliantly with a dance at the beach club came the Wall Street crash. Mr. Enderton had switched his investments to government securities but Mr. Brendle's automobile accessory factory went pounding on the rocks. He had to sell his showy home in a Western city, mortgage his seashore cottage, sell his servants except Mrs. Wheat, and Mr. Trainband received his monthly check throughout the winter. At the opening of the next season, Mr. Trainband noticed a great change in Melroy Brendle. He found the grizzled underdog of the previous year down at the old wharf talking earnestly with a young professional fisherman. Mrs. Brendle had suffered a nervous breakdown. She was particularly incensed that her old seashore "pal" had been so "down" when she had made to let all her servants go. She had quite a scene.

INSTALLMENT TWENTY

But at this point, a continuous signaling from behind Mrs. Brendle's disheveled such a climax of mental and gustative urgency that Mr. Brendle could no longer even pretend to disregard it. He paused, coughed in unconscious but courteous imitation of Mrs. Wheat; then recovered enough intelligence to stop talking, leave the room, and go outdoors. Fluvia helped the distressed lady to a chair at the table.

"I don't mean to hurt his feelings," Mrs. Brendle sobbed, yielding to the hand-maiden's ministrations. "It just seems sometimes 'Fluvia' that I'm hearing so much I can't bear any more. Perhaps I could endure it if I could see anything for my children and me worth our living for; but to lose everything—everything—everything—"

Gradually Mrs. Wheat got her quieted, brought her strong coffee, coaxed her to drink it, and, in snatched intervals, beckoned to Mr. Brendle from the pantry window, lured him in there through the kitchen and gave him an excellent breakfast; yet never in all her scourgings ceased to hearten her anguished mistress. "Everything will be all right, honey," she would call loudly from the kitchen; then, hurrying back to the dining-room, and supplying her master on the way, she would pat Mrs. Brendle's shoulder and prophesy more good fortune.

Afterward, she helped her up stairs to recline upon a chaise longue. Mrs. Brendle gulped at intervals; but after a while she dozed, and Fluvia, when retired to her own room to write a cheerful post card to a son of hers who was in jail in Lexington, Kentucky, for using four dollars of his employer's money to buy a pair of yellow shoes, a blue necktie, and a little food.

The relieved Mr. Trainband, searching leisurely for the new flower specialist, came round the cottage, skirted the terrace, sauntered along a garden path, and, turning a bend, halted, and again huskily whispered, "My Godfrey might!"

Before him a girl in an old brown blouse, a short green skirt, pale stockings with pair runs in them, and muddy old brown shoes, was determinedly shoveling soil into a wheelbarrow. Kitty looked a little thin, as people say; but, although violence may have cost her some roundness of contour, her health was evidently unimpaired, nor were her eyes less bright than in days of affluence. They grew brighter as she turned and saw the handle of a hoe lightly departing; this round gray rod, like the stiffened tail of some padded animal in retreat, was just disappearing round the bend in the path.

"Don't go," she said. "How lucky you're here. I was just coming to look for you."

Mr. Trainband's definition of luck differed from hers; but he returned a dimly to face her, leaned upon his hoe, swallowed obviously, and inquired, "Where's the new gadd'n'uh?"

"It's you," she said, nodding at him cordially. "You're supposed to do double work this year."

"What?"

"A party named Trainband," she informed him. "I'm going to work with you, hour after hour, day after day, and maybe before long we can get Mother to join us."

"Wait!" he said. "Something's wrong with you. 'Tain't more'n a half-hour ago, or three-quarters at the utmost, I heard Mrs. Wheat and your mother both say your father promised your mother to take an 'air'—"

"Don't believe 'em! Fluvia does not know the truth when she sees it and Mother hardly understands a word she says. You're what he promised. Right now, here's this extra spade; I brought it on purpose for you."

"What you want to do with it?" Kitty laughed agreeably. "It's going to do some landscaping."

"What?" he said feebly. "You mean on top of all my vegetable garden? 'wooden' hoed? 'Fluvia'?"

"Certainly! You see this rise in the ground here, this hillock? The first thing we do, we're going to level it off and carry the dirt over to that hollow place. That's what we're doing now."

"What for?"

Her expression became serious. "Because I've been studying landscape gardening and that's what I'm going to be. So many girls want to be clothes models and sculptors and secretaries there isn't enough work to go round,

IN DEPTHS OF DESPAIR

MRS. MARY JONES lives in New England. Every month was a nightmare to her. Her letter says, "I suffered periodical pains through my head, backache and female weakness."

She tried everything. Visited clinics. Nothing helped her. Finally she gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial . . . scarcely hoping it would succeed where more expensive things had failed.

But she was surprised. Through its tonic action, it built up her health . . . lessened her pain. She says, "My backache is completely relieved."

BREAKFASTERS ENJOY MUSIC AND INITIATION

The Orange County "Kil Willies," famous musical funsters who won the first prize in the first annual Fiesta del Ora held recently on the Derby ranch near Costa Mesa, were featured as entertainers at the regular weekly meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club which was held this morning in Kelson's cafe.

Members and guests of the club were enthusiastic in expressing their approval of the program presented by the group of musicians. Besides vocal and instrumental selections, the program was enlivened by a series of jokes which were "pulled" on members of the club.

Walter Sorenson acted as master of ceremonies. Eugene Kohen was in charge of the program.

Attired in a flannel nightshirt and the nightcap, Ivis Stein, local business man, was initiated into the club as the baby member in an humorous initiation ceremony conducted by Floyd Stewart.

Dave Wettlin, president of the club, presided at the meeting and during a brief business session.

VAUDEVILLE FRIDAY AT FOX WEST COAST

"Madison Square Garden," starring Jack Oakie and five acts of high class vaudeville is the entertainment menu offered by the Fox West Coast theater starting tomorrow and continuing over the week-end.

The new feature has a long list of well known personages in the cast, including Thomas Meighan, Marion Nixon, Zasu Pitts, William Collier Sr., William Boyd and Lew Cody.

It is the story of a promotion mixed with crime and a romance that moves fast and furious. The vaudeville for this week is heralded as the best in the past two months.

"The Crash" and "The Crusader" which have been playing at the theater since Monday, end their runs at the theater tonight.

BARRYMORE PICTURE OPENS AT B'WAY

"A Bill of Divorcement," starring John Barrymore, opens today for three days at the Fox Broadway theater.

A mighty story, the plot tells how a British officer returns to his home after years in a hospital following the war, shell shocked. He finds a different world about him. His wife has divorced him and is preparing to marry another man. His child knows him only as a man. His friends have only memories of him.

Just how strong are these claims of returned shell shocked veterans? Barrymore is supported by Katharine Hepburn and Billy Burke, the latter of whom is making her return to the screen in this film. Paul Cavanaugh, David Manners and Elizabeth Patterson have other important roles.

Nothing in the home means so much and costs so little as Electricity

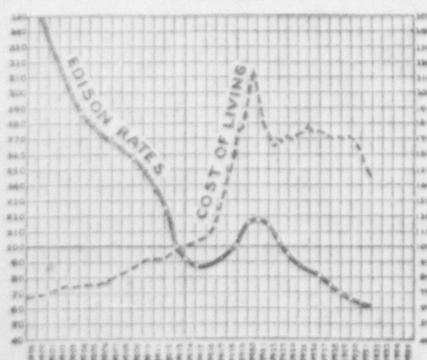

ELECTRICITY Is Cheap - for instance

To turn on a Light while Looking for Something is far Cheaper than using a Match . . . and Much Safer

YOU WISH TO LOOK for something in your closet, garage, porch, etc., etc. You switch on the electric light for a moment or two. There are no false steps . . . no groping . . . no misreading of labels . . . and the abundant, safe illumination that your electric lamp gives you costs you less than the cheapest match you could buy!

Take advantage of this fact to have plenty of electric light wherever you are likely to need it. Remember . . . you can use far more light today and yet pay no more for electricity than you did years ago. For during the past ten years, while other costs were rising, Edison has voluntarily reduced the cost of electricity eight times, making your electrical dollar buy nearly twice as much electricity as it did in 1921.

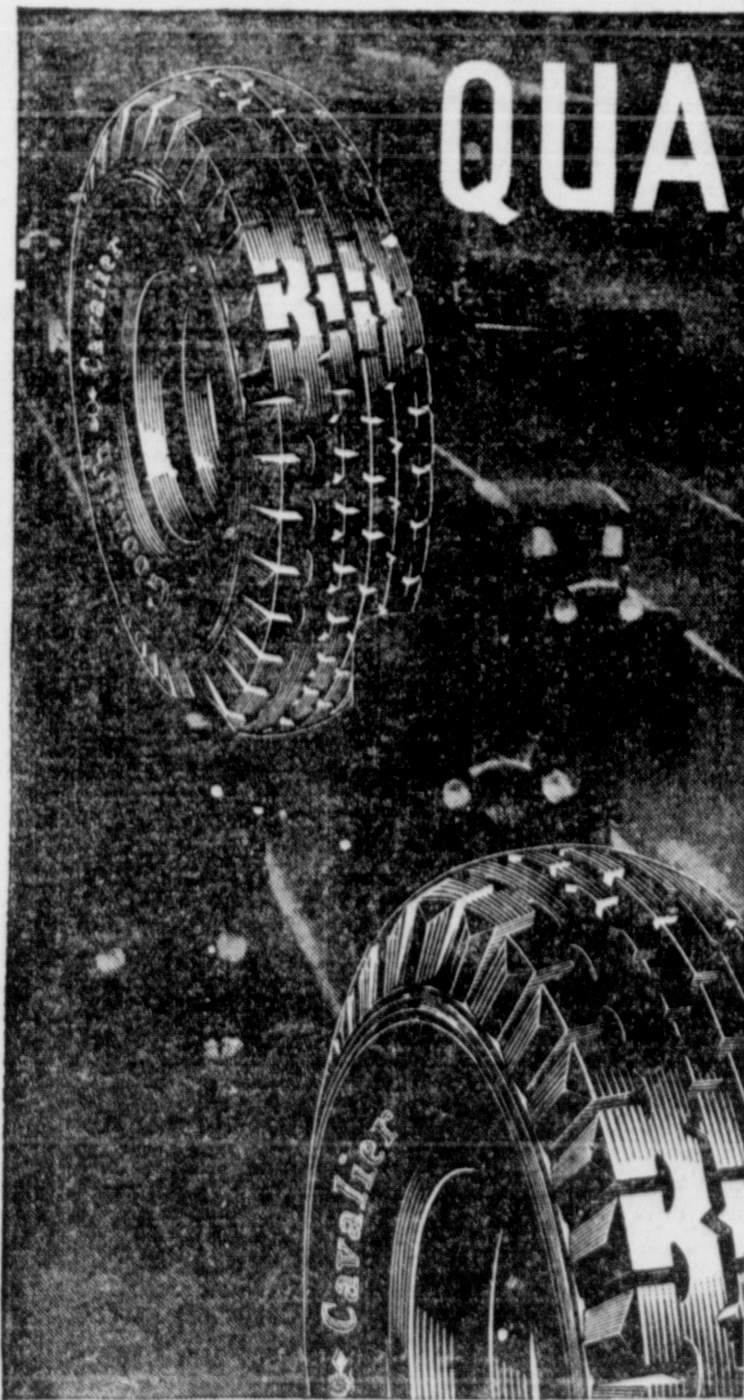

Edison Lighting Rates Reduced 42% Since 1921

General living costs are well below their high peak of 1921, but they are still 40% higher than in 1914. But Edison lighting rates are 40% lower than in 1914, and since 1921 these rates have been reduced 42%. Your dollar now buys twice as much electricity for all household uses as it did in 1921!

HUNTINGTON BEACH VOTERS
UNANIMOUSLY APPROVE OIL
DRILLING AT MASS MEETING

At an open meeting attended by approximately 1000 voters, at Memorial hall in Huntington Beach last night for the purpose of hearing a discussion of Proposition No. 11, the tide land grant measure to the city of Huntington Beach, with a proviso for drilling the tidelands for oil, a resolution endorsing the measure and asking the people of the state to vote "yes on proposition No. 11" was carried unanimously.

A ye a nay vote was called by the chairman of the meeting, and on the resolution by the chairman and not a single voice was lifted in opposition to Proposition No. 11.

The meeting was planned as a non-partisan meeting and open discussion and the opponents of the tide land measure were invited to have representatives speak at the meeting, but they failed to have a speaker present.

Judge C. P. Patton of the municipal court called the meeting to order and asked J. F. Burke, to preside as chairman. Burke took the chair and stated the purpose of the meeting, announcing at the outset that he would give both sides opportunity to discuss Proposition No. 11. He stated that the opponents had failed to obtain speakers, but that he would welcome any person in the audience who wished to speak against the measure.

Reviews Case
Burke in opening the meeting recited the history of the tide land grant bill which was unanimously adopted by the last legislature. He stated that his policy was to support in the Register any proposition concerning Huntington Beach which the people of that city desired for their own benefit. Believing the people of the city favored the tide land grant, he had urged its adoption by editorials in his newspaper, The Register, when it first came up. He said that later when Governor James Rolph Jr. had allowed the measure to go to pocket veto, he had through an editorial in The Register, expressed criticism of the governor.

Burke stated that he had also supported editorially in The Register, the tide land grant measure on the ballot at the election last May, that this measure had received a majority vote in Santa Ana, Anaheim and other Orange county cities in the circulation territory of The Register, but that Huntington Beach had opposed the measure, much to his chagrin. He said he was anxious to determine the sentiment of the people of Huntington Beach on the question of Proposition No. 11, and for that reason had consented to act as chairman of the meeting and he hoped that he would hear both sides of the question discussed.

MANY HELPED
HERE BY RED CROSS SUPPLIES

The supply of cotton goods furnished to the Santa Ana chapter of the Red Cross for the alleviation of distress among needy families by the American Red Cross, has been exhausted with the completion of distribution, it was learned today from Terry E. Stephenson, chairman of the local chapter.

Stephenson said that between 900 and 1000 families in Santa Ana alone were benefited by the distribution of the cotton cloth for making clothing. In addition to families in Santa Ana, others in communities in the southern part of the county were served by the Santa Ana chapter.

A specific effort was made by the committee in charge of distribution, which was headed by Mrs. Roy Beall, to care for the needs of school children. However, the amount of goods received here was not sufficient to meet all the requests for cloth.

There will be no more cotton cloth available, but a requisition will be sent to the American Red Cross for a quantity of ready-made cotton clothing which is to be distributed by the organization. The shipment to Santa Ana is not expected to arrive for considerable time, however.

Luncheon

Presiding at one of the prettiest of the autumn's friendly affairs, was Mrs. Lillian Koenig, who on Saturday greeted a group of friends at a bridge luncheon in her home, 1108 North Main street.

Having adopted a cheerful yellow color theme, the hostess developed it in her use of chrysanthemums, ranging in color from clear golden yellow to deep bronze, and in form from tiny baby button to the immense display varieties. Linen draped tables at which the appetizing luncheon menu was served preceded the bridge series, repeated the dominant color effect.

At the close of the afternoon card contest, checking of artistic tally cards revealed Mrs. Howard Turner as holder of high score. When Mrs. Koenig presented her awards, she also honored Mrs. Victor T. Hawk, whose score was second only to Mrs. Turner's.

Sharing the pleasant afternoon were Mesdames Howard Turner, Charles Isaacson, H. J. Plumb, E. S. Baker, Bertha Bowers, Harold Nelson, Victor Hawk, M. A. Patton, E. R. Sinks, C. A. Hawk, the Mesdames Marvel Baker and Evelyn Hering, together with the hostess, Mrs. Koenig.

Guests Conspire With Party Hostess in Gift Shower

A joyous quality seemed to pervade the atmosphere of the Herbert Meisinger home, 2426 North Park boulevard, one evening this week, as friends gathered at the invitation of Mrs. Meisinger, to compliment Mrs. Herbert Kauffman and to join in a merry session of bridge.

Less than five years ago, many of the same home (that of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Haley, Mrs. Meisinger's parents) to witness a double bridal, that of Miss Margaret Haley and Herbert Meisinger, and of Miss Marjorie Peebles and Herbert Kauffman. The close friendship of the young people has increased with the passing years, and so it was with special joy that Mrs. Meisinger planned the recent party to celebrate the happiness which the future will bring her friend.

Autumn flowers in soft pastel colors were used to harmonize with prevailing pink and blue bridge tables, and other decorative appointments. Prizes in the bridge series were wrapped and tied in the same pretty color tones. Awards went to Mrs. Homer DeWeese of Long Beach, formerly Miss Dorothy Peebles, a sister of the honoree and holder of the evening's high score; Miss Marian Stanley, second; and Mrs. William Hawley, third high.

After the prizes had been distributed, Mrs. Kauffman found herself the center of interest, as she was presented with a dainty basket, the gift of her sister, Mrs. Dale Brockert, and it in turn filled with layette gifts from the other guests present.

After everything had been examined and admired, Mrs. Meisinger spread the bridge tables with blue and white checkered covers, which with slender pink tapers and pink nut cups continued the decorative theme. A two-course refreshment menu was served.

Asked to share the pleasant occasion with hostess and honoree were Mesdames Homer DeWeese of Long Beach, Dale Brockert, William Hawley, Edith Brooks, Dorothy Jones, C. W. Hoyle, Dorothy Wilson, Charles E. Hayes, Earl Robinson and Miss Marian Stanley of this city; Mrs. Joseph Blanchard and Mrs. Fred Gleason of Placentia.

Auxiliary Glee Club
Enjoys Pasadena
Dinner Party

Past triumphs and future plans divided interest Tuesday night when members of Legion auxiliary glee club motored to South Pasadena to be entertained in the home of Mrs. Donald Daggett, formerly Luvilla Brothers White of this city.

While guests took with them many contributions to the dinner menu which opened the friendly evening, Mrs. Daggett had planned several special dishes and had made her tables quite lovely with flowers and appointments to suggest the Halloween holiday. This motif was established immediately upon arrival of the Santa Ana group, for they were greeted by a most bewitching young Halloween sprite, little Miss Phyllis White, young daughter of the hostess, arrayed in fantastic costume.

A novel feature of the dinner hour was the pretty favor at each place, the gift of the hostess, Mrs. Daggett. Shining her hospitality were Mesdames Elsie Conliffe, Cecil Pross Willis, Grace Lindeberger, Charlene Utt, Julia Hyde, Inez Halber, Ruth Spears, Edith Schaniel, Gertrude Collier, Henrietta Lykka and Miss Gladys Young.

The glee club's next meeting will be an evening party on November 15 with Miss Gladys Young.

Hostess Uses Holiday
Theme for Party
Appointments

A Halloween bridge party given Tuesday evening by Miss Helen Benthlen, 826 Cypress avenue, paid deference to the current holiday season in very pleasant fashion, with the home itself presenting a gay and colorful Halloween aspect with black cats, witches and pumpkins to supplement the floral decorations of marigolds and yellow baby chrysanthemums.

Tables were in readiness for bridge, which formed the major amusement of the evening, although additional entertainment was found in a stunt program introduced by the hostess and participated in by the guests. Prizes awarded in bridge went to Mrs. David MacMillan and Richard McDonald, scoring high in their respective classifications, with Mr. and Mrs. John Moring receiving the consolation gifts.

The decorative theme found even fuller expression at the late supper hour when the hostess arranged her tables with bright yellow blossoms and other details to harmonize, for the serving of assorted sandwiches, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, coffee and candies.

Miss Benthlen's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. David R. MacMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Florian Eickholt, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jerry, Mr. and Mrs. Moring and Charles Wolford.

Progressive Dinner
Hostesses Employ
Holiday Motif

A progressive dinner party for which four hostesses extended successively, the hospitality of their homes, took place recently when Miss Dorothy Van Deusen, Miss Mary Veache, Miss Virginia Motley and Miss Vivian White, took turns at receiving guests.

Pumpkins appointed the table at the Van Deusen home, 724 Oak street, where guests gathered for their first course at 6 o'clock, while at the homes of Miss Veache, 915 South Van Ness avenue, and Miss Virginia Motley, 424 South Broadway, where the two succeeding courses were enjoyed, table decorations carried out the Halloween motif in other effects. Bowls of yellow chrysanthemums centered the tables, with tall gold tapers standing at either end and favors being typical of the holiday.

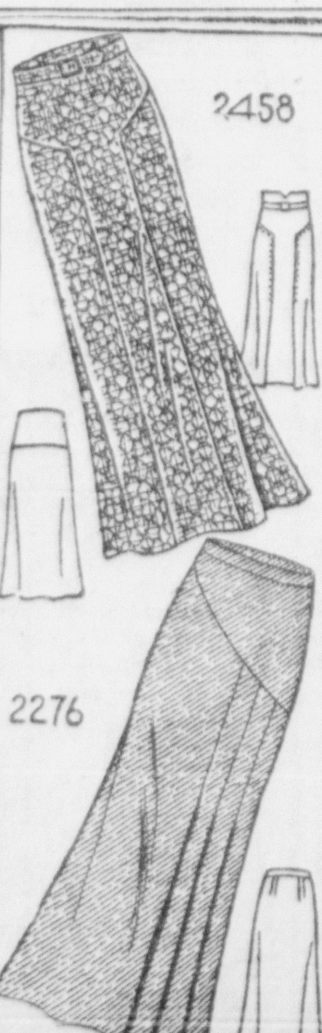

Guests remained at the home of Miss White at 318 South Lyon street for dancing and a final course of pumpkin pie and punch. Comprising the party were the Mesdames Vivian White, Julienne Wolven, Dorothy Van Deusen, Virginia Motley, Mary Veache and Joy Lee Henderson, all of Santa Ana, and Miss Jane Walker of Orange; Messrs. Asa Hoffman Jr., Arthur Salisbury, Gilbert Colbeck, Stephen Bruff and Bob Rice, all of Santa Ana and David Wettlin and Bob Maer of Orange.

Second Book Review section members of Ebell society held their last meeting for two months when they met yesterday afternoon in the clubhouse. Because the section's regular meeting days in November and December fall close to Thanksgiving and Christmas, there will not be another regular meeting until January, it was decided.

The program was presented by Mrs. Loyal K. King, who reviewed a group of recent books. Mrs. J. C. Metzger, leader, was in charge of the business session.

Ebell Juniors Procure
Artist for Carnival
Tomorrow Night

Junior Ebell dance attendees patronizing the "art booth" at the Carnival in Ebell clubhouse tomorrow night, will be sketched in their favorite attitudes by an expert, according to information made known today by Miss Lillian Griffith, general chairman, an artist of talent for this novel post have just been rewarded by her procuring of Lee Blair of Los Angeles, Chouinard Art school student gaining rapid recognition in this section for his ability. Mr. Blair's work has been accorded honors at several recent exhibits, Miss Griffith revealed.

Mrs. Robert S. Wade, Junior Ebell president and dance chairman, reiterated today that tomorrow night's dance, scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock, would be informal, but that this designation did not imply fancy dress costumes, nor sports dress, as has been inquired. Tickets, they further stated, may be procured tomorrow evening at the door if they are not obtained earlier from Miss Florence Brownridge, ticket chairman, or from one of the club members.

Fortune telling concessions, Halloween decorations and gaily dressed refreshment dispensers promise to make the carnival dance a merry one, judging from the descriptions of Junior Ebell members working on the several dance committees, and a large attendance is expected.

Believe me, cooks are born, not made. But the develop a good technique if she puts her mind on the job.

I know, for there is such a one in my own family, who when a young girl, could not be trusted to make cornstarch without having more lumps than cornstarch. Yet, today, with a family to look after, she has grown into a creditable cook. It is just like playing the piano; hard practice makes the listening not too hard on the ears.

Then, let's have a look at the girl who cooks as an artist paints a picture, or a writer does a story. She draws on imagination in a creative way, the result I leave to your imagination. From a girl of this type comes a recipe for making a butterscotch pie, which she says to me, is the best she ever tasted. I'll have to take her word for it because to me of all the innocuous things going, butterscotch pie is the best example.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE
1 heaping tablespoon butter
1 1/4 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 heaping tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup milk (overize cupful)
1 baked pie shell.

Burn the butter to a dark brown, moisten the sugar with a little of the milk and add to the burnt butter. Let this boil until it makes a very thick syrup, making sure that it doesn't burn. Then, take the egg yolks and beat them with the milk. Pour this into the syrup mixture, but don't be surprised if the syrup forms a hard lump in the center. This cooks out presently.

Stir over a low fire until it begins to thicken, then add the cornstarch diluted with a little milk. Stir until thick and pour into a pinch of salt and beat until it becomes thick and rather transparent. Pour into the baked crust, beat the whites for a meringue and brown before chilling.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Chicken and Oyster Pie

(10 SERVINGS)
5-pound stewing chicken
1 quart oysters
1 quart milk
8 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons butter
Chicken broth as needed in sauce (almost a quart)
Salt and pepper
Minced parsley to taste
Biscuit dough

A quart of oysters is specified for the pie, but if so much oyster flavor is undesirable cut the quantity to a pint.

Stew the chicken slowly in well seasoned broth, cook and cut from the bone. Wash the oysters and bring boiling water over them and let stand five minutes to plump them. This water can be saved and added to the sauce, the chicken broth as well, for there should be at least two quarts of gravy, more is still better.

Take the oysters for the moment, and bring the milk to a boil with butter in it. Make a thin paste out of flour and use to thicken the oyster and chicken broth. If

Junior College Affairs
Include Opening Tea
And Y. W. Service

A series of teas planned to bring Santa Ana junior college women into closer contact with those outside their individual groups, was launched Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert Northcross, 1313 Spurgeon street. Cabinet members and Associated Women Students' advisory are planning the teas.

In the late afternoon Mrs. Northcross, Miss Elizabeth Palmer, Miss Kay Bement and Miss Helen Bower greeted their guests and provided a charming hour for their entertainment. They were assisted by the Mesdames Irene Ross, Bonnie Kiser, Edna Bargsten, Celestia Straub and Marian Parsons. The second of the series of teas is to be held on November 14.

Faculty members present were Miss Agnes Todd Miller, Mrs. J. Parley Smith, Miss Lillian Dickson and Miss Ruth Rowland. Shaving in the afternoon besides the hostesses, Mrs. Northcross and the Mesdames Palmer, Bement and Bower were the Mesdames Mary Adams, Barbara Allen, Irene Boyer, Marian Brownridge, Alline Buck, Ruth Burnette, Mildred Collins, Catherine Cornwell, Ruth Crowl, Mary Dierker, Elizabeth Dowling, Mary Jean DeBols, Juanita Dungan, Eleanor Filippin, Helen Goetsch, Mary Gruwell, Iris Hannah, Katherine Holmes, Virginia Hopper, Rachael Lamb, Dorothy Lewis, Marguerite Lewis, Elma McBride, Mary Malsed, Mildred Rohrs, Madeline Seavy, Helen Stauffer, Betty Stock, Virginia Taylor, Pauline Wells, Olive VanMeter and Emma Wettlin.

Y. W. Recognition
With only the glow of their candles lighting the room, more than 50 women of Santa Ana junior college were accepted Monday night as members of the college Y. W. C. A. at an impressive recognition ceremony held in the Y hall following a covered dish supper.

To the singing of "Follow the Glean" each white candle was lighted from that of the large candle held by the president, Miss Katherine Chapman, and from which members of the cabinet had lighted their tapers preceding the ritual. Bouquets of chrysanthemums about the room and a fire in the fireplace made a very effective setting for the ceremony.

Preceding the recognition service pep songs were led by Miss Mary Nal with Miss Margaret Smart at the piano. It was announced that the annual fall Y. W. retreat would be held this week end from Friday to Sunday at Camp Emma Otis and that at the next meeting discussion groups would be resumed.

Advisors present were Mrs. John Teesman, Miss Isabel Whiting and Miss Dorothy Decker.

Parent-Teachers

Frances Willard
The Willard P.-T. A. membership campaign started Wednesday, October 26, and will end Wednesday, November 2. Under the direction of Mrs. R. E. Millman, chairman, it will be conducted through the home room groups, with a treat promised to the class which turns in the largest per cent of members.

The general theme for the year is "Getting Acquainted." At the first meeting on October 4 in the cafeteria the parents "Got Acquainted" with the teachers. On November 1 at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium, the fathers will be given an opportunity to join the mothers in "Getting Acquainted" with Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of Santa Ana schools, who will be the honored guest and speaker of the evening.

Many splendid programs have been planned for the year by the committee, one of which is an afternoon with Dr. Susan Dorsey as guest and speaker. On another date a play is scheduled to be followed by a discussion.

The sauce is too thick, just add more flour to bring to the right thickness. Flavor nicely.

Arrange the diced chicken and oysters, each cut in half, in a large pan. Pour the gravy over the meats and set the pan in a medium hot oven to get bubbling hot, but not to make a batch of biscuits—ordinary recipe—roll thin, cut small rounds, oodles of them, and arrange over the pan of meat and gravy. Have extra biscuits for the "dunking" club.

An average serving of this pie is worth fifty calories, half protein, the tissue builder, and half energy makers. Green vegetables (spinach et al) go with this pie, but no potatoes.

A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me this week will bring you a copy of the 21-Day Diet Recipes, free of charge.

Friday, I'll describe a delicious emergency dessert.

Mrs. Campbell Named
To Head Quill Pen
Club for Year

Recognizing the competent manner in which Mrs. J. D. Campbell has presided over Quill Pen meetings in the occasional absence of the past year's president, Mrs. Herman Reuter, now of Hollywood, the club members made her their unanimous choice for the post of president when the annual business meeting was held Tuesday night with Mrs. Blanche Brown, 509 South Main street.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Campbell were Mrs. Maude Goff, vice president, and Mrs. Marshall Harnois, continued as secretary; with Mrs. J. U. Vlau, appointed as nickledeon, and Mrs. N. E. Wells as historian, succeeding Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Frank J. Was, respectively.

Program features following the election, opened with an interesting study of Mexico prepared by Mrs. Roy Winchester, and dealing with practically every phase of national life. Mrs. Was read one of her "Marcella" stories, "The Wagon and the Star," a humorous study in the psychology of adolescence, and Mrs. Vlau read an interesting episode developing in the working out of a book plot. A letter from Mrs. R. A. Cushman, now of Talmage, was read by Mrs. Harnois, who also passed around the kodak pictures which accompanied it. Although living in the north, Mrs. Cushman has been retained as a life member of Quill Pen, the club feeling that she has been too vital a part of the organization to be dropped from membership. Completing the program was the history of the past year's work, given an original interpretation by Mrs. Was.

Mrs. Brown climaxed the evening's friendly hospitality by serving, with the aid of her mother, Mrs. James A. Small, delicious little butterscotch squares, date cake and ice cream with salted pecans and coffee. Mrs. Vlau and Mrs. Harnois also assisted in serving.

Mrs. Small was the sole guest of the evening, while Quill Pen members present were Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Mrs. N. E. Wells, Miss Verna Wells, Mrs. Harry M. Smith, Mrs. Maude Goff, Mrs. Clarence McClintock, Mrs. J. U. Vlau, Mrs. Roy Winchester, Mrs. S. B. Marshall, Mrs. Frank Was, Mrs. Emmett Elliott and the hostess, Mrs. Brown.

The meeting of November 8 will be with Mrs. Elliott, 821 Riverside avenue, when manuscripts will be due from Mrs. Reuter, Mrs. Harnois and Mrs. McClintock.

Orange Couple Wedded
At Home Ceremony
Last Evening

A simple home wedding service taking place in Orange last evening and uniting two residents of that city, well known in Santa Ana, was that of Miss Margaret Louise Hutchins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hutchins of Orange street, and Loren Housley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Housley of Orange street. The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's parents.

Performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Robert B. McAulay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Orange, the service was attended only by members of the two families and by Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Anderson of Santa Ana. The date was chosen as a compliment to the latter couple, whose fourth wedding anniversary occurred yesterday.

Rites were read at an altar of fernery overhung by a white wedding bell and enhanced by a great basket of yellow chrysanthemums, the gift of Mr. Hutchins. Bride and bridegroom took their positions with single attendants, Mrs. V. J. Anderson serving as matron of honor, and Harper Housley, brother of the bridegroom, as best man.

Beautifully gowned in pale blue net, the bride wore as flowers a corsage of gardenias. A similar corsage was worn by Mrs. Anderson, attired in blue crepe de chine. No wedding trip is planned at this date, the new Mr. and Mrs. Housley already having taken an apartment in Orange, where they will reside.

A former resident of San Luis Obispo, Mrs. Housley moved to Orange with her family two years ago, graduating from the Orange high school last June and taking over bookkeeping duties under her father at the Orange Electrical Service company. These duties she will continue, it was revealed. Her husband, who resided formerly in Kansas, has made his home in Orange for three years and is associated with his father in the furniture business of that city.

ORANGE, Oct. 27.—Discussing "Spiritual and Moral Training of Children in the Home," the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church of Santa Ana, spoke yesterday afternoon at the monthly meeting of Maple Street P.-T.A. held in the school.

During a business session, in charge of Mrs. Kenneth King, president, announcement was made that the Maple association will take part in a joint meeting with other P.-T.A. groups November 15 at Intermediate school. A health program will be presented at this time. Because of the Christmas season, the December meeting will be held earlier in the month than usual, on the 13th, it was decided.

Members of the ways and means committee, with Mrs. Herbert Eljah as chairman, announced a benefit party to be held November 9. The place of meeting will be announced later.

In his talk, the Rev. Mr. Owings stated that in order to properly influence their children, parents must have morality and spirituality themselves. The parents must set the example in various ways, by having true religion and morality within; by making religion attractive to the child; by teaching religion through insight and reasoning rather than compulsion; by testing the teaching on such occasions when the child is face to face with right and wrong.

Muscle was provided by Tommie Huffman, who played violin solos, "Lilac Waltz" and "Aloha Waltz."

REVIEW BOOKS AT SESSION OF CLUB SECTION

ORANGE, Oct. 27.—Books of yesterday, some of which have passed into oblivion and some of which have ridden the waves of popularity down to the present day, and books of the present were considered at a meeting of the Book Review section of the Orange Woman's club yesterday afternoon at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Mabel Faulkner, leader of the section, reviewed with particular detail Gertrude Atherton's autobiography, revealing a many-sided individualistic woman who early in her womanhood had entertained a freedom of thought most unusual at the time, some 50 years ago.

Mrs. Faulkner who heard Mrs. Atherton speak at San Francisco, a short time ago, described her as a woman of 75 with the appearance of a woman of 50, with red hair and sparkling blue eyes and who wore on the occasion a black satin frock with brown shoes and hose and a shawl of some sort thrown carelessly about her shoulders.

Interesting, irritating, That Mrs. Atherton's autobiography is interesting, controversial, irritating and good reading from the first word to the last, was Mrs. Faulkner's summary of the volume. The mother of the author is described by her daughter as "beautiful and flirtatious and without an atom of sense."

Other books briefly reviewed were "A New Deal," by Stuart Chase, written under the conditions of today, and "The Progressive Era" by Claude Bower. Mrs. Faulkner, who is the librarian at the Orange public library, said that librarians of the nation had been asked to make a survey of books popular 10, 20, and 30 years ago and to list those still called for at the library desk. Books enjoying a revival of interest the librarian named as Basil King's "Conquest of Fear," "A Fortune to Share" by Vash Young and all sorts of psychological books on business and salesmanship. This, she said she believed to be because of the human need they filled. The writings of Overstreet and Jastrow are very popular for this reason, said the section leader.

Old Books Popular
Books of the past which have maintained their popularity, Mrs. Faulkner named as "The Man of the Forest," by Zane Grey, 20 copies of which have been worn out by the reading public of Orange since the book was published in 1920, "Seventeen," by Booth Tarkington, "The Amazing Interlude," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," published in 1904; Gene Stratton Porter's "The Harvesters," "The House of the Seven Gables," and "Freckles," and "Alice of Old Vincennes." There is no demand for Wells' "Mr. Britling Sees It Through," "Inside the Cup," by Winston Churchill, of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." Old books of the past 30 years which the speaker named as classics are "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," by Alice Hegan Rice, and Edith Wharton's "House of Mirth."

Mrs. Henry Gardener was in charge of the roll call, which was answered by two minute reviews of books or articles by section members. Included in these thumb-nail reviews were "Immigrant to Inventor," by Pupin, reviewed by Mrs. E. D. Pratt; "Good Earth," by Pearl Buck and Catherine Anthony's "Elizabethan Days," by Mrs. George Peterson; "Country Cousins," by Walter Dyer; by Mrs. W. H. Lowry; "Humanity Uprooted" and "Good Earth," by Mrs. M. L. Pearson.

Mrs. J. F. Rowell called attention to the recent 75th anniversary of the Atlantic Monthly whose first editor was James Russell Lowell. Mrs. Gardener told of reading again with interest the works of Bret Harte and Mark Twain, after a visit to Northern California where scenes of many of the stories had been laid.

NEED PERMISSION

BERNE—If you are an American and are fortunate enough to own an airplane in which you wish to fly over Switzerland, don't do so without special permission. Because there is no agreement between the United States and Switzerland, this country has ruled that permission is necessary before an American plane can fly across its borders.

TRUST DEED, OIL MEASURES BEFORE LIONS

ORANGE, Oct. 27.—Talks on two of the amendments to come before voters on November 8 were given at the meeting of the Lions club at the American Legion clubhouse yesterday. Harry Westover, Santa Ana attorney, spoke on the trust deed measure, and Wayne Goble, member of the Santa Ana Lions club, spoke on amendment No. 11, the tidelands proposition.

"People with money to lend in California have been constantly attempting to convert to the old common law mortgage and thus obviate the equitable mortgage involved by the equity courts," Westover said he considers the trust deed law vicious and inequitable, and should be wiped off the statute books. The trust deed law made over finance of the building industry, which has been detrimental to the state, he declared.

Goble spoke on the grant of tidelands to the city of Huntington Beach. Speaking on behalf of the Huntington Beach Improvement association, Goble said that the main purpose of the city of Huntington Beach is to have wells drilled to offset the Standard Oil company wells and to use the revenue for municipal purposes.

PRESENT RINGS TO PRESIDENTS OF 20-30 CLUB

ORANGE, Oct. 27.—Past presidents' rings were presented to Dr. W. C. Leitchfuss, first president of the 20-30 club, and to Melvin Clement, second president of the organization, at a meeting of the club last night at Robinson's tavern. The rings were presented by V. G. Wolfe, club president, who also presented a special gift to W. J. Winslow, who acted as president of the group before the club received its charter.

W. J. Winslow was the club chairman and Terry E. Stephenson, of Santa Ana, authority on California history, was the speaker of the evening. Stephenson traced the history of California from the days when only the Indians lived here to the picturesque days of the early missions. He told of the coming of the Spaniards and the establishment of the great ranchos and of the subsequent breaking up of these great stretches of land given as grants by the King of Spain.

The boom days which preceded the depression of 10 years and which is within the memory of many residents of Orange county were described by Stephenson, who closed his interesting talk with a description of the development of the orchard industry.

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The farmer said, "I surely hope that with my real long piece of rope your flying horse can tow my car right up to my big farm. When we get there I'll let you play around the place the live-long day. There's nothing there to hurt you, so there's no cause for alarm."

Said Scouty, "We will do the best we can and, if with luck we're blessed, we soon will reach our destination. Come, let's hurry now."

"The rope must be tied very tight so everything will be all right. The horse is quite a patient beast. It will not start a row."

They tied the rope as best they could and Scouty shouted, "That looks good. Now let's climb in the farmer's car and shout a loud giddap!"

"However, if the horse should balk because we're heavy, we will walk. I'll run along beside it, giving it a friendly slap."

So, in they climbed and then the beast said, "Even though the load's increased, I'll try to pull you over the ground to prove that I am strong."

"Just hang on tight and off we go. At first the place will be real slow, but soon I'll travel rapidly, unless my guess is wrong."

The horse then took a step or two and Scouty cried, "Hurray for you! You're doing great. Just keep it up. Gee, this is heaps of fun."

Then he kept quiet for a while, but shortly added, with a smile, "Aw, shucks, the pace is much too slow. Why don't you start to run?"

Perhaps this made the horse real mad, "cause something happened that seemed sad. Instead of running over the ground, the horse flew in the air.

This broke the rope. Then, with a shout, wee Scouty suddenly jumped out and grabbed the horse's tail. He cried, "Hey! Don't go 'way up there!"

TWO WINTERSBURG RESIDENTS HURT

WINTERSBURG, Oct. 27.—Two local men were hurt in accidents this week and a third escaped injury in a crash.

David Russell was injured when a ladder upon which he was standing, fell, throwing him to the ground. The family is moving from Los Angeles to the former Elmer Turner house which members of the Russell family purchased last week. A piece of furniture being too wide to be taken up the winding staircase, was being taken through the upstairs window when the accident occurred.

Walter Peters, while at work on a local ranch, fractured several ribs in working with farm machinery. It was several days before Peters found that the ribs were fractured. He is now at home and under a physician's care.

E. J. Parcel of the Blaylock tract escaped injury when the truck which he was driving was struck by a car driven by a Mexican near Los Alamitos. About $200 damage was done to the truck and the Mexican was said to have a broken collar bone. Parcel escaped unscathed.

LYON ANSWERS CHARGES MADE BY OPPONENTS

BUENA PARK, Oct. 27.—With cries from the audience of "When is Schumacher going to come out and talk to him?" and "Why doesn't Schumacher come and speak for himself?" Le Roy Lyon, candidate for supervisor, faced his questioners last night at a meeting at the grammar school here, answering every charge made by a few men who came to challenge him on statements made at former meetings.

Buy Inn at "Huddle"

Following his talk, in which Lyon explained how the third supervisorial district pays 43 per cent of the taxes and gets but a small per cent back, and how the supervisor refuses to be consistent in purchase of rights of way, and will do it in some cases, while in others he will not, he said one of the chief objections he had to purchase of St. Ann's Inn as a part of the county courthouse system, in addition to the inefficient methods it requires to do business with offices across the street, was that the supervisors purchased it following one of the "huddles" and did not take it to the taxpayers.

He said the Anaheim Bulletin had printed incorrect figures in publishing facts on the district, and that it had also garbled statements he had made at the meeting at Cypress the night before.

Questioning followed, one man inquiring if Schumacher, the incumbent, did not lead the fight in keeping Long Beach from purchasing water bearing lands. The reply by Lyon was, all supervisors were against that, and he stated further, a man who will not protect the water rights of third district should be hung.

Explains School Tax

Answering questions as to why the Placentia school district has a tax rate of $1.15, while schools like Buena Park have but a 77 cent rate, Lyon, president of the board for the past two years, said the people had demanded extra curricular work, and that when they wanted a cheaper school the board would let them have it. He also outlined that transportation costs at Placentia district, with five widely scattered schools, is enormous.

Louis Jacobsen, former president of the Placentia board, said he served as president of the board eight of Lyon's 19 years on the board, and that members had considered Lyon was an extravagant member, and gave as an instance that whatever buildings were made, Lyon insisted they be good.

In reply to Floyd McCracken, who declared that one road in question, built to the Dr. H. A. Johnston property on the river, near Olive street bridge, had been built to allow assistance to get to the dyke in case of flood, Lyon replied it couldn't be, for the surfaced road lacked approximately 300 yards of getting to that dyke, and that when the road on the dyke, from the main highway, was in such condition that it couldn't be used to prevent flood, that questioned road would be under from three to four feet of water. McCracken was answered by C. C. McProud, who said the right of way to the supervisors for that road, and who said they paid him $2100 for it, instead of $1500, and told him it was to some property on the river bank. McCracken said he supposed it was property that was to be subdivided.

McCracken declared, however, that the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce had appealed to the supervisors to put that road through, and did not explain why it lacked 300 yards of reaching the dyke for which purpose it was built. Lyon said the road was built, at expense of the taxpayers, for one individual.

Explains Figures
McCracken then questioned Lyon as to why he used certain years' figures in his advertisements, and others in his talk, and Lyon replied that last night he used the period during which Tom Talbot was supervisor of second district, overlapping Schumacher's term, and wanted it noted that during that period, Schumacher's district paid the bill, and "Tom's got the money."

After questioning, Lyon showed McCracken that his own figures on spending the general fund are correct, and somebody cried from the audience.

Says Parents Set Example For Children

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—The ideal in home-making is to set away from artificial conditions and for "father to set an example and mother to set an example, that boys will want no more except like mother, and girls will want no more except like father," Dr. Regina Westcott-Weiman told about 400 fathers and mothers at the old auditorium of the high school last night in a second "Father's night" address in her lecture course.

She severely criticized the methods of getting children to advance by showing the best, instead of through the progress idea, and illustrated her remark by saying that the best and the worst school work of each child should be, on display, showing what progress has been made, rather than having on display the best of the best student.

Her talk November 9 to fathers and mothers will be on "Group Pressure," Explain This, Follow and declared last night that potting, dancing and sex problems are a result of group pressure.

Next Wednesday at 9:30 o'clock Dr. Westcott will talk at the auditorium.

the audience, "Let's take up a collection and build a little red schoolhouse, and send the Bulletin staff to school."

McCracken asked, "Isn't it true that you have a Long Beach man handling your campaign? Is there any significant connection between that and Long Beach wanting to purchase water bearing land here?"

No Significance

Lyon replied, "I am glad you asked that question; I have Ed Pritchard helping me with my campaign; there is no significance between the fact his home is in Long Beach; he is a man I know and like," and followed the statement with the one that the man who betrays his district on the water question should be hung.

"One week I am said to be controlled by the Irvine interests; another by Long Beach; another by Burke of the Santa Ana Register, and another by something or somebody else; I am not, I am running because I think some conditions ought to be rectified, and if the people think the same way, they will vote for me," he added.

Following the time of questioning, Herb Oelke, one of the men defeated in the primaries by Lyon and Schumacher, said that at the meeting at Cypress the night before, Schumacher supporters pasted his car with Schumacher stickers, and if he found them on again last night, would get 50 voters for Lyon for every sticker.

Opposed To Liquor

John Kellenberger, also a defeated candidate, urged support for Lyon, and W. J. Carmichael, another defeated candidate, asked Lyon how he stood on prohibition.

Lyon declared that he is dry, has always been dry, and always will be dry, and considers that sale of light wines and beers would interfere with the sale of orange juices as a beverage, and would load another hardship on the grower.

Lyon is scheduled to talk at Anaheim November 4, and at Brea November 2. He will also talk at Placentia, Yorba Linda and La Habra. The date is not set yet. He last night invited Schumacher to be present, and to talk at these meetings.

The San Salvador pictures he showed were the last group taken on that trip.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in pimples. Your heart sours and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

They contain wonderful, harmless, chewing vegetable extracts, amending when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resistant a substitute, 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

REPUBLICANS' RULE ATTACKED IN BEACH CITY

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 27.—R. H. McInnis of San Diego, former army officer and campaign speaker for President Hoover in 1928, spoke under the auspices of the Republican Progressive club for Roosevelt-Garner to a capacity crowd at the Osgood dance hall last night.

He denounced plans of the present administration in trying to bring the nation back to normal, asserting that Hoover is a willing tool in the hands of capital. He stated that the solution of the problem is a complete change of party administration not only at Washington but in the state lineup also.

McInnis, during his speech, read from a letter that he had recently received from Franklin D. Roosevelt, candidate for president on the Democratic ticket, in which Roosevelt stated that he is going into this campaign to serve the masses.

Frank Harwood candidate for assembly and Dave Wetlin, candidate for the state senate on the Democratic ticket, gave short addresses.

Harry Williamson is manager for the Republican Progressive club for Roosevelt-Garner in the harbor district and presided at last night's gathering. The newly organized party claims a following of over 500 members at this time.

THE NEW ORATORY

Those who have been following the political campaign may have noted the change in the type of oratory from that which prevailed in earlier days. The old-time orator, with his right hand within the folds of his long frock coat, with his grandiloquent phrases, and with a voice like old Stentor, has passed on. He would appear unnatural on any platform, whether it be in the pulpit or on a political platform. Those were the days when an orator was defined as a man who had the art of making a noise in the chest seem like an important message from the brain.

The oratory of today is to be at all effective must express itself in an almost conversational tone, re-inforced by statements of fact, or by an appeal to the mind or the conscience. Needless to say, that is not the type of oratory that is heard even generally now. But the men of power and of influence are those who make their appeals in a calm, considerate, and persuasive tone. The "wind-jammer" and the bombastic shouter have had their day. When such an orator is inflicted upon us, we are all prone to say, "Go, buy the moon."

The passionate appeal to the mob has little influence in these days of compact organization. The masses of the people are pretty closely held in leash by their associates in the various groups to which they belong. Intelligence is playing a much larger part in the lives of many. Their activities are determined by the appeal to reason. The independent vote is so much larger now than it was a generation ago, that the party which would succeed must always have such in mind in the conduct of its campaign. There is, to be sure, in this campaign a large protest vote, which neither an emotional appeal of fear or favor nor a calm statement of facts can change. Its struggle with dire needs has set it so that nothing can change its determination. This state of discontent is bound to seek a change, even though it mean a jump from the frying pan into the fire.

Yet, in the long run, it is the leader who has a cause, and who has the ability to present it, not only with emotional fervor, but supported by an array of convincing facts, who will win his way into the minds of the thinking and responsible classes. Needless to say, there are yet too many who dare not stake their appeal for public support upon these methods.

BALANCING THE BUDGET

Whatever may be said about the balancing of the national budget by the opposing candidates, and we confess that in the mass of figures being hurled about, we find ourselves at sea about the whole matter, we do know that there is a mounting deficit, no matter what may be the cause or who is to blame. Something will have to be done to meet the emergency. That is very certain.

It was thought that the last session of Congress had fixed the matter. The financiers of the treasury and Congress were apparently convinced that the new revenue bill would meet the emergency. How mistaken they were is apparent from the increasing deficit that is piling up. The first task of Congress at the coming short session will be to face that question. There will be those, of course, who will again bring forward the sales tax. It is doubtful if this Congress will change its attitude in the matter. The increase in postage has been a boomerang. The increase has actually decreased the revenues of the Post Office department. Individuals and business houses alike have been cutting their postage budgets, either by writing fewer letters, or using postal cards, or distributing advertising matter by messengers. The tax on bank checks is being overcome by drawing cash from the banks through counter orders, and paying local bills in cash.

It is apparent that where an alternative exists, the people will always use it to avoid paying the tax. Therefore, it will be the duty of the Treasury and the Congress to find means of taxing which will bring in the revenue. This in times of depression is far from easy, for with shrunken fortunes and diminishing incomes, and country-wide unemployment, and the demand for public funds to meet emergencies, the sources of taxation have been considerably dried up. If only the army and navy could become the victims of a moratorium, the problem would be easy. But so far as we have been able to learn no political candidate has advised that even the sums for these departments should be cut. We have little wisdom in the matter. We hope the Treasury and the Congress have a great deal of wisdom in the matter.

OUR VANISHING EXPORT TRADE AND THE NAVY

It is generally conceded that a large navy is necessary for a world power, either to defend its foreign possessions or its foreign trade. But what becomes of this basis for a large navy when most of the great nations of the world are raising barriers to trade, which is rapidly changing the world into a group of isolated and self-sufficient states, shutting themselves off from other countries. With our increasing foreign trade, it has been claimed that a navy was needed to protect our commerce upon the high seas. With our export trade rapidly dwindling to a vanishing point, what becomes of the thesis that a large navy is needed?

Since the beginning of the industrial age over a century ago, the foreign trade of the nations has grown enormously. The ocean-carrying steamers have dotted all the seas, and entered every port, carrying the goods of the nations to each other's markets. Since the war, the nations have entered upon a policy of exclusiveness. More and more the great nations have closed their doors to foreign immigrants and foreign trade almost as effectively as Japan was closed to the world before Commodore Perry opened up the markets of the hermit kingdom.

We are in the midst of radical changes in our foreign relations; and if the tendency goes on, all we shall need is forts and sub-marine bombs to keep out the enemy and a navy sufficient to supplement them.

In the light of the developing situation in England, and Russia, and Germany's attitude in the offing the argument, unfortunately, for isolation seems to be gathering more foundation.

The inconsistency of large navies, except for such powers as have outlying possessions, in view of this growing exclusiveness of nations, should become manifest. A great navy and a dwindling foreign trade is a contradiction. When there is nothing to defend or to protect, why should we spend hundreds of millions of dollars for the enginery designed only for that purpose?

WATCHING THE BUSINESS INDEX

Never were there so many people watching the business index as at the present time. The rise and fall of the stock market quotations has always been compared with the business index; and when a rising stock market ran up against a declining business index, only the uninitiated took courage. The knowing ones simply shook their heads, and muttered perhaps, "Just a pool at work," or "The market is being rigged for political purposes."

The last three weeks has shown some encouragement as we look at the business index. The rise has been very slight, but it has been continuous; and that is the encouraging feature of it. It must be remembered that changes are not sudden. Months before the break in the stock market in 1929, which ended the boom, the business index had been dropping. The wise ones in the industrial and the financial world had been shaking their heads for sometime. That fact is the encouraging feature of the present rise in the business index. If it keeps on rising, even ever so slowly, we have every reason to believe that "prosperity may be around the corner" at last. Let us hope so.

Earth Still Has Some Fuel

San Francisco Chronicle

Some day the world may have to raise each year the fuel it uses that year, as the grass-burning farmers of China now do. But that time will arrive, if at all, ages from now. Oil may give out in a time measured by centuries, but coal will last for thousands of years. And now comes news of the discovery of a deep bed of brown coal in Germany 1000 square miles in area and up to 500 feet thick. It is estimated that the deposit contains more fuel than the Pennsylvania coal beds and at least half as much as the entire available reserve of Britain. Of course, it is of much lower quality, but that very fact may make it a more valuable source of useful by-products.

So there will be fuel enough, pending that distant day when our successors may perhaps dispense with it by utilizing the direct rays of the sun. The chief question will be of transportation. There are parts of China where a gallon of gasoline costs more than a ton of coal. There are many parts where neither coal, oil nor wood is to be had for ordinary use, and the peasants farm the valleys for food and the hills for the grass which they twist into withes for fuel. Transportation, to make the surplus coal of other regions available to them, would release the hills for goat pasture and for reforestation, whose products would pay many times over for the coal. When a farmer must raise his own fuel and clothing, as well as his food, life is hard.

At any rate, this old earth will last a long time yet, if we only have sense enough to use it.

Latin-American Baseball

La Noticia (Managua, Nicar.)

The baseball nine of the Military Academy was playing a game with a team composed of civilians. In the second inning an Academic made a hit which he judged suited him to two bases. While this player was midway in his career between the first and second bases, however, the President of the Republic entered the grand stand, and the musicians immediately began to play the national hymn. The runner stopped at once in the path between the first and second bases, and, from force of habit, came to a military salute. The civilian fielder, recovering the ball, threw it to the second baseman, who ran and touched with it the status-quo figure on the base line.

Was the runner out or not?
That is a question which still is agitating fanatics and players, for the Military Academy lost the game by one run.

Another episode in the same contest would seem to us to balance this disadvantage. At the very moment a civilian fielder was racing after a fly, a playful dog darted between his legs, causing him to drop the ball. By the time the fielder had regained both his footing and the sphere, the runner had completed the circuit, and was credited with a home run.

These two prejudices in the same game, affecting impartially first one side and then the other, would seem to counterpoise the handicaps sustained.

Of the Gay Nineties

Oakland Tribune

Many minds went back to the gay nineties when the first was published telling of the passing from the picture of Boni De Catellane, a man whose escapades in those days frequently occupied first page position. Count Boni was one of the first to hit upon the idea of exchanging a title for millions. He married Anna Gould and started such a career of reckless spending that the world has seldom seen.

A part of the railroad fortune of Jay Gould was spread over Europe a little man who was pictured as the top. The whole country talked of him; he was impermanent on our stage; and he became a sort of symbol. After a while the wealthy wife tired of supplying the money and Count Boni, who became a marquis, lived in semi-retirement, a broken-down man of astounding memories. Maybe his gesture toward society, if he ever made one, came when he advised American girls to keep their money and their self-respect at home.

Opportunity Knocks!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

VOICING A PROTEST

I like to see a coiled and crawling cobra
As he wrestles with a mongoose on the screen;
I like to see him gnashing
His back teeth, while wildly lashing
His tail, as he enacts the final scene.
But "speakee" stars, if running such big chances
Would draw a thousand dollars every day,
While the cobra has to perish,
And no hope may ever cherish
That his heirs will get a single cent of pay.

I like to watch a snarling Bengal tiger,
Which a python has entangled in his grasp
With a saturnine endeavor
The vast creature's neck to sever—
I like to hear the jungle monarch gasp.
But neither of these gamely battling monsters
For all the bold heroic work they do
Has the slightest expectation
Of a fitting compensation:
They'll never get a solitary sou.

They might at least be fed before the combat,
They certainly deserve some just reward,
For such vividly exciting
And such risky forms of fighting
Would make a screen star richer than a lord.
And plucking them from out their native jungle,
Without the slightest hope of pay or fame,
Till they finally expire
Is certainly a burning, blazing shame.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE FORGOTTEN MAN

William Graham Sumner's phrase, "the forgotten man" has lately been brought back into circulation.

This "forgotten man" is the man at the bottom of the economic pyramid, the man whose burden and whose bread seem not to be properly balanced.

Alfred E. Smith has protested emphasis upon "the forgotten man" as a drawing of class distinctions and a stimulating of class hatreds.

He pleads for a concert of classes instead of a conflict of classes.

In so far as anyone sees fit to parade "the forgotten man" as a sweeping assertion that industrial leadership is morally caloused, Mr. Smith is, I think, right in his protest.

If there be "forgotten men" in our economic life, it is less the malevolence than the muddling of leadership that accounts for the lapse of memory.

In the ranks of industrial leadership, as in every other group, there are callous and irresponsible men.

But, by and large, before the depression industrial leadership was moving rapidly to the belief that the key to permanent prosperity lay in leadership's seeing to it that there should be no "forgotten men" in the economic life of America.

This was what industrial leaders meant when they talked of the imperative necessity for a wider and wider spread of buying power to absorb the growing output of our machine economy.

This was what industrial leaders meant when they talked of high wages, short hours, and low prices as being the soundest of sound business.

In short, the day we left hand-production and adopted machine-production, that day the self-preservation of the industrial system began to depend upon leadership's seeing to it that there should be no "forgotten men" to paralyze industry's markets.

I do not agree with Mr. Smith that nothing should now be said about "the forgotten man" but I suggest that we be careful about defining him, for, while a misuse of this phrase may degenerate into demagoguery, the intelligent use of it may help to hold the attention of economic leadership to the crucial issue of popular buying power.

A PEACEFUL ROOM

I would give a child a peaceful room where he could go to rest and feel himself safe and still. I am moved to make this obvious remark because I have been seeing some unrestful rooms lately. The decorator has been loose in the land.

I like pretty rooms. I like color and the forms of lovely things. What I fear in the children's rooms is the fussiness, the crowded activity that is in the decorations. Children like animals and Mother Goose rhymes. They like the pictures that suggest these old friends. But do you think it is wise to paint the walls of their rooms with trumpeting elephants, charging lions, spouting whales and fairy goblins? I don't. Those pictures please the grownups but I am not so certain that they have a good effect on tired children.

If there is a playroom whose walls can be dressed with all the animals from the Zoo, well and good. The creatures are not ferocious in daylight. At night they take on new characters and when a child is tried his mind plays him strange tricks. The things that are harmless in daylight are ferocious in the dark. Decorations that caused no ripple of thought in daytime stimulate fear in the shadows of night. In my experience such things are best kept out of the child's sleeping room. If there is to be a trifle let it be a gentle scheme, soothing and serene in its atmosphere. A clutter of toys is out of place in the child's sleeping room. We want that room to express rest, peace, quiet. Disorder makes one restless and a tired child is restless enough without adding anything to increase his fatigue.

Every object he rests his eyes on stimulates him anew when we want to shut off all stimulation and induce sleep. Have the sleeping room comparatively bare, of soft color, serene atmosphere, and it will do its full share in restoring peace and quiet to the child who so much needs them.

The lighting of the room is very important. It is unwise to allow light to shine in the child's face. The windows have to be open so that means we have to guard against draperies that will flap in and out of the windows, setting themselves doused in every shower, until they look like trains of distress. Some arrangement to soften the light and still allow plenty of air to circulate about the room is needed.

The bed itself is the chief article of furniture. Have it as near right as possible. That means a rather hard, firm mattress, a flat pillow, if any, and light weight warm coverings. The mattress and spring are more important than the frame. Spend the money for them and take a sturdy simple frame that will stand up against hard usage.

Simplicity ought to be the keynote of decoration in the children's rooms. The simpler the better. Color and line and mood are not expensive but they are essential to the peaceful, restful room a child needs for a good night's sleep. Sometimes we spend more money than thought and the result doesn't justify us. (Copyright, 1932, The Bell Syn., Inc.)
